

Letter # 1

March 8, 1994

Greetings fellow collectors,

This letter is going out to all those I can identify who collect radio antennae insulators. Since this is an obscure hobby even within the larger insulator hobby, I wanted to ask you all if you would like to begin networking, to acquire new ones, trade dupes, share historical information and so forth.

In fact, I propose that we start a national club if there is enough interest. We could introduce our idea via Crown Jewels and likely discover many more radio antennae insulator collectors.

If you like this idea, drop me a post card or give me a call. If you don't want to be on this list, let me know that as well. Some of these names have not been in the CJ directory for years, but I believe all who are listed here still are somewhat active.

A few of you probably have the names of others who collect these little creatures. If so, would you please send me their addresses and phone numbers, and I will act as the coordinator for this undertaking for now. Everyone, please drop me a line really soon and let us know your thoughts. I could publish your comments in a follow-up letter if you like.

Happy collecting,

Keith Roloson
